St. Valentine's Day Brightened By Renewal of Social Activities

MISS MAY MCKEEKY.

Lifting of All Health Ban Almost Coincides With Lent

The "flu" may come and the "flu" may go, but the work of Dan Capil goes on forever. Saturday was a busy day for Memphis postmen, who, in addition to their usual heavy load, served as messengers for the little blind "god of love," and left at hundreds of homes beautiful valentines, fashioned of lace paper, plink and blue ribbon lovers' knots, red hearts and white turtle doves, each in subtle fashion telling that old, old story, which is always new. Not only the postman, but the florist as well presented the offerings upon love's altar in the form of costly bouquets, in which all the loveliest flowers of spring symbolized "Love's Young Dream."

The road news that the flu ban would be lifted on Monday came like a bright ray of sunshine in a long-befclouded sky and at once Memphisans began to think of a score of pleasant ways of entertaining. Tuesday, however, marks the close of the midwinter social season. Quite a number of Memphisans have come to New Orleans to enjoy the Mardi Gras celebration on that day and the brilliant Rex ball, which will close the festivities.

Tuesday is the day selected for the Mardi Gras luncheon at the Nineteenth Century club, which will be the closing social event at the club until the Easter Monday luncheon, no social affair with the exception of very informal teas, being given at the club during the Lent, which begins on Wednesday.

The Lenten season will not be entirely devoid of social affairs, however. There will be a number of charming luncheons and dinners, complimentary to the spring brides. Among those for whom delightful pre-nuptial affairs have been planned are: Miss Jean Hunter, who will be a February bride; Miss Mattie Louise Spragins, who will be married in February; Miss Mildred Hays and Miss Anne Perkins, whose weddings will be celebrated in March.

Miss Mary Rogers, Miss Florene May Phillips and Miss Gladys Landrum, who will be numbered among the after-Easter brides.

In addition to the luncheon at the Nineteenth Century club there will be another beautiful club luncheon during the week, being that planned by the Woman's club. That eagerly anticipated affair, which is the annual entertainment of the club, will be enjoyed at Beverly hall, the elegantly appointed home of the president, Mrs. Alston Boyd, on Friday afternoon.

On Friday afternoon also, Miss Jean Hunter, whose marriage to Dr. William Leurgans Williamson, will be an event of special interest in social circles, on Feb. 24, will be the honoree at a lovely spring luncheon tendered at the Country club by her sister, Mrs. Henry Watter, formerly Miss Eliza Hunter.

Another charming bride, Miss Mattie Louise Spragins, whose marriage to Mr. James Earl Ruffin, on Saturday, Feb. 21, will be of much interest, will be the specially complimented guests at the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. A. Adams will entertain. Also, members of the Spragins-Ruffin bridal party on Thursday evening.

LEADING SUFFRAGISTS GO TO CONVENTION IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Robert M. Beattie (above). Mrs. Beattie, after several weeks' visit in Nashville, is now attending the great national suffrage convention in Chicago, which probably will be the last meeting of the National Suffrage association, which has been merged with the National Women Voters league.

Mrs. Beattie, who is a former president of the Tennessee Equal Suffrage association, and was one of those instrumental in securing the passage of the suffrage amendment by the state legislature, accompanied Mrs. Beattie to Chicago to attend the national convention.

Entertainments

MR. AND MRS. McLEMORE TENDER WEDDING RECEPTION.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. McLemore on Union avenue will be the scene of a beautiful affair on Saturday evening, when they will tender a wedding reception in honor of Mr. Lusk McGinnis, Colville, of the latter a niece of Mr. and Mrs. McLemore.

The elegantly appointed rooms throughout the house will be artistically decorated, a pink color motif prevailing and valentine motif being effectively employed.

In the living room, where Mr. and Mrs. McLemore will give a cordial welcome to their guests, palms, ferns, pink and pink carnations will make a most attractive setting and in the dining room, where a delicious wedding menu was served, the table was draped in shiny lace over white satin.

The wedding cake will hold a place of honor in the center of the table, surrounded by ferns and smilax, while glass bowls of bride and white and green mints in bon-bon dishes, will add an artistic touch.

A Hawaiian band will render a musical program throughout the evening and the young people will enjoy informal dancing.

The guest list will be limited to the members of the bride party, relatives and few most intimate friends. The marriage of Miss Valorie May McLemore to Mr. Lusk M. Colville, of Pawhuska, Okla., will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock, the Rev. Charles T. Wright officiating.

The decorations and the frocks worn by the bridemaids will carry out a valentine motif in keeping with the day.

Miss McLemore will have Miss Mary McLemore as her maid of honor; Mrs. Vance Maynard Thompson as best woman; Misses Elizabeth McLemore, Alice Lake, and Elizabeth Jones, of Lake Village, Ark., as bridesmaids; and Miss Marie Maudlin Lawrence, as flower girl.

Mr. Colville will be attended by Mr. G. H. Drummond, of Pawhuska, Okla., as best man; Messrs. John P. Hines, Robert Jones, John C. McLemore, Jr., Carlton Coleman, Louis McLemore and Jack Hays, groomsmen.

Valentine Bridge Party. For charming matron. Miss Gladys Landrum entertained on Saturday afternoon, in her home on Goodpastor place, with a beautiful valentine bridge party in honor of Mrs. W. C. Carter. Among the guests were: Mrs. Burge, whose marriage was a social event in January.

The rooms presented a beautiful picture, with a host of red and white roses with ferns and other greenery effectively arranged. Dainty and appropriate valentines served as score cards for the spirited game of bridge for which lovely prizes were awarded.

Mrs. Short was becomingly gowned in dark blue beaded tulle and wore a blue satin hat and a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The charming hostess was gowned in midwint blue with trimmings of cream lace with which she wore a corsage bouquet of sun-kissed roses and valley lilies.

Here and There. Miss Mary Greaser, of Dallas, Tex., is the attractive guest of Misses Anne Mae and Nell Silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Dwight, of Evanston, Ill., are the guests of Col. and Mrs. A. J. Frost.

Mrs. Melville Levy, of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive Tuesday in the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lowenstein, 217 North Waldron boulevard.

Mrs. Leland Bowles and little daughter, Merrill Givens, of Nashville, Tenn., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Julian, 34 Whitfield place.

Mrs. Robert F. Carpenter and little son, Billy, are visiting in Vicksburg, Miss., as the guests of Mrs. Joseph Lamb and family.

Miss Angie Bailey has returned home from Miss McIntyre's school in New York.

Misses Louise Ann Roberts, Natello Davant and Louise Paine are in Seawance attending the pre-Lenten festivities and will spend next week-end in Nashville as the guests of Mrs. Malvin Wright.

A Grant Matthews, clerk of the United States district court, who has been ill for a couple of days, was at his office in the federal building Saturday morning.

H. Clint McKellar, assistant postmaster, leaves Saturday night for Biloxi, Miss., where he will spend a short vacation with his family, which is spending the winter there.

Mrs. Jennie Jenkins will leave Sunday for a visit in Herlin, Ill.
